Some Features of the # White Gasoline Car

which result in unusual Economy of Up-Keep

The White gasoline car is designed and built to run at a lower cost of up-keep, mile for mile, than any other car on the American market. Some of the factors which ensure economy both in fuel consumption and in cost of maintenance are:

Intake Gases Heated

By including the intake passages with the block engine casting, the intake gases are heated. As a result, every particle of gasoline is completely vaporized and each cylinder receives a uniform mixture of the proper richness, thus ensuring very low fuel consumption

Exhaust Gases Cooled

By water-jacketing the exhaust passages, the temperature of the exhaust gases is reduced as soon as they leave the cylinders. As a result, the pressure of these gases is greatly reduced and there is a minimum loss of power due to back pressure This factor also results in low fuel consumption.

Four-Speed Transmission

The direct drive is on third gear and practically all driving in town is done on this gear. For high-speed running, the fourth gear is used. There is, therefore, no racing of the engine and no undue strains upon it when the car is run at high speed. Furthermore, the engine may always be run at very close to its most economical speed.

Valve Mechanism Enclosed

There is no chance for dirt and grit to work their way into the bearing surfaces and cause wear and faulty timing, as is the case when the valve mechanism consists of a series of external and unprotected springs, rocker-arms, push-rods, etc.

Accessibility of Every Working Part

The cost of making an ordinary adjustment on any car is determined largely by the accossibility of the several parts. In the White, accessibility has been developed to a much greater degree than in any other car. For example, as there are no external manifolds. r no overhead valve contrivances, a valve may be removed for regrinding without removing or disturbing any other part. As another example, the magneto and water-pump are on opposite sides of the engine and are driven independently, so that either may be reached without disturbing the other.
